

Sohaya Visions and Mukul & Ghetto Tigers present

AGATHE

A multi-award-winning play by Angela J. Davis

Directed by Mukul Ahmed

AGATHE

by Angela J. Davis / directed by Mukul Ahmed

In the spring of 1994, a plane crash takes the life of an African president and ignites a killing spree that the world will later recognise as the Rwandan genocide. The person who is next in line for the country's presidency — and who will, in fact, become the country's head of state for less than a day — is Agathe Uwilingiyimana, a university professor and an advocate for women and girls' education. A beacon for our times, her silenced story and brave spirit are brought to life in this riveting play, inspired by true but overlooked history.

AGATHE was a top-four finalist for the prestigious Jane Chambers Award and received several other honours including the Henley Rose Award, Landing Theatre New American Voices Award, and the SETC Getchell Award.

SCRIPT-READING as part of Crawley Wordfest

31st March 2023, 19:00 — Crawley Tree Museum

103 High Street, Crawley RH10 1DD — Book your free ticket: bit.ly/3IRKxWF

R&D staged performance

22th April 2023, 19:30 — Pinter Studio, ArtsOne, Queen Mary University London, Mile End Road, London E1 4NS — Book your free ticket

Graphic: SNOW

Brighton
Artists
Network

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL
ENGLAND

